Description

The Alberta Ministry of Labour has announced its sixth year of the Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) Futures – Research Funding Program. OHS Futures formalizes the way researchers, institutions, industry, and labour organizations across Canada access funding for OHS research. The program links government with experts for the purpose of enhancing OHS knowledge and capacity within the province.

In previous years, OHS Futures received over 20 applications, and funded between seven and nine projects.

For more information on the 2019 research priorities and terms and conditions, visit the Government of Alberta website [1].

Funding Availability

The total budget for 2019 is $1 million. In the past, the program has funded projects from $16,000 to $250,000.
