Program

Commonwealth Peace & Reconciliation Challenge Grants [1]

Description

Applications are now open for the Commonwealth Peace and Reconciliation Challenge Grants. Aimed at academic and professional staff at ACU member universities [2], the grants can be used to support initiatives advancing peace, reconciliation, and Indigenous knowledge.

Grants of up to GBP 2, 500 each are available to support collaborative work focused on either of the two main strategic priorities of the Commonwealth Peace and Reconciliation Network [3]:

- Historical memory and trauma
- Institutional reform and Indigenous knowledge

From designing new learning modules to improve the understanding of settler-Indigenous relations in Canada, to promoting a decolonised approach to studying abroad - last year's Peace and Reconciliation Challenge Grants funded a range of initiatives led by our member universities. Applications could include ideas for:

- Virtual exchange or collaboration, teaching / professional practice collaboration, sharing and co-development of learning materials, tools, training and approaches to support contingency and continuity of operations planning at Higher Education Institutions.
- Virtual fellowships or collaboration, comparative analyses, research management and uptake capacity building, understanding and documenting indigenous knowledge and practices.

Eligibility

These grants are aimed at academic and professional staff at ACU member universities, the grants can be used to support initiatives advancing peace, reconciliation, and Indigenous knowledge.

Funding Availability

Four grants of up to GBP 2,500 each, will be available for ACU members to meet the costs of organising projects that promote the aims and priorities of the Commonwealth Peace and Reconciliation Network.
