

Bloomberg Manulife Prize for Promotion of Active Health

Sponsor

Manulife Financial

Description

This prize recognizes a Canadian Academic whose research has contributed to understanding how factors such as physical activity, nutrition, fitness, or psychosocial context can influence personal health and well-being, and whose work could have a positive impact on our health-related behaviours and lifestyle choices.

Eligibility

Candidates must hold an academic appointment at a Canadian University and be actively conducting research in a campus or hospital setting. Past winners of the Manulife Prize are not eligible to reapply. Of particular note, successful candidates are expected to demonstrate:

1. An outstanding and innovative research record evidenced by peer-reviewed scientific publications, patents or products, and academic presentations.
2. The translation of research findings and outcomes into initiatives or actions that have had, or have the potential to have, a positive impact on physical activity, nutrition, fitness, or the psychosocial context, that can influence personal health and well-being, and whose work could have a positive impact on health-related behaviours and lifestyle choices

Prize

$50,000.00

Deadlines

If College-level review is required, your College will communicate its earlier internal deadlines.
