Description

CFI seeks to support promising and innovative research or technology development in areas where Canada currently is, or has the potential to be, competitive on the global stage. It is currently anticipated that the next competition for CFI-IF will be launched in April 2021 for the 2022 application. The University of Guelph is starting its review and selection process now to identify strong, competitive proposals and provide the support resources needed to move them forward.

This information session will provide an overview of the opportunity and the University of Guelph resources available to support your application

Please see the Canada Foundation for Innovation: Innovation Fund Grant Application Research Alert [2] for more information.
