Canadian Medical Hall of Fame (CMHF)

Description

Canadian Medical Hall of Fame Laureate recognizes outstanding leadership and contributions to medicine and the health sciences, in Canada or abroad, and/or which have led to extraordinary improvements in human health.

Candidates' work may be a single meritorious contribution or a lifetime of superior accomplishments. Pioneers in their field, candidates are considered role models who inspire young Canadians to pursue careers in the health sciences.

You must be nominated for this award. Categories for nominations from Canadian Medical Hall of Fame [1] include:

- Leadership in building excellence in health for Canadians and the world;
- Leadership in health promotion, illness, prevention and care; and
- Leadership in research with national and international recognition for a scientific contribution.

Eligibility

The CMHF acknowledges health leadership to be inclusive of many professions and roles including physicians, researchers, nurses, dentists, pharmacists, policy makers — to name only a few.

Up to six individuals may be selected for induction annually; only one individual may be inducted posthumously each year.

Special Notes

Organizations can serve as nominators but only individuals can be nominated.

Nominations may remain active for up to three consecutive selection processes and may be supplemented at any time. You must be re-nominated if you have received official notice that an application will not go forward, or after the three-year period ends.

Please note that research activities carried out in the context of COVID-19 need to adhere to the University of Guelph COVID-19 research principles, policies, guidelines and processes as they may be updated from time to time and communicated on the Office of Research web-page [2].

How to Apply

The Vice-President (Research) encourages nominations for this prestigious award and will serve as nominator for those nominees recommended by the Honours and Awards Advisory Committee. If you wish to nominate a colleague or to be considered for VPR nomination:

1. We recommend discussing your interest in this award with your College Research Manager and Associate Dean (Research).
2. Complete the Expression of Interest document [3].
3. Send the completed Expression of Interest document and a CV to research.honours@uoguelph.ca [4] and copy your College Research Manager by the internal deadline.

Career interruptions due to parental leave, family care, extended illness or community responsibilities will not negatively impact the committee's assessment of a candidate's research productivity. These will be taken into consideration when EOIs are assessed.

If your nomination will be submitted by a different nominee, and therefore does not require the
