Description

The Operating Grants Program is the principal means by which the Cancer Research Society (the Society) fulfills its mission to support fundamental, early translational and environment-cancer research in the broad field of cancer to contribute to the advancement of science aimed at preventing, detecting and treating this disease.

CRS Operating Grants are intended to support Canadian researchers in their pursuit to advance scientific knowledge in the following three (3) areas:

1. Fundamental/basic cancer research
2. Early translational cancer research, including preclinical research cellular or animal models, biomarkers for diagnostics and prognosis and imaging
3. Research studying the environmental causes of cancer including viruses, pollutants, work environment, lifestyle and diet.

Eligibility

Applicants and co-applicants must hold an academic appointment at a Canadian university or accredited institution.

Applicants must have their own laboratory and the possibility of hiring students and postdoctoral fellows.

Postdoctoral fellows, research associates, staff and research scientists without an academic appointment are not eligible to apply.

There must be only one main applicant, Principal Investigator (PI), and one host institution who will be responsible for administering the grant, if awarded. All other applicants are considered co-applicants.
