Chicken Farmers of Canada

For More Information

The Canadian Poultry Research Council (CPRC) is administering the Request for Proposals (RFPs) for Chicken Farmers of Canada (CFC).

For complete program guidelines, please visit the CPRC's webpage which outlines the CFC program details [1].

Description

Chicken Farmers of Canada is seeking high quality proposals to carry out research projects addressing two different areas:

1. Management strategies to control E. coli
2. Vaccine development for emerging broiler infectious diseases

Applications submitted under the RFP process must pertain directly to one of the two specific topics listed.

Please note: CPRC is administering CFC's RFPs. LOI submissions are to be submitted to CPRC but clearly identified as being in response to the CFC Request for Proposals.

Maximum Project Value

Funds for these projects are separate to those provided by CPRC.

- CFC's contribution to the proposal will be limited to a maximum of $42,000 per project.
- Industry dollars, whether from CFC or other industry sources, must be matched with non-industry dollars at a ratio of at least 1:1. Funding ratios with higher contributions from non-industry sources are preferred.
