Description

Sharing your data improves your visibility as a researcher, increases citations for your publications, gives you recognition for your work, attracts new collaborations, and most importantly allows for reproducibility and verification of results. This brown bag will cover:

- Benefits around depositing your research data into a repository.
- Impact of the Tri-Agency Policy influences how data is deposited and shared.
- How to select a repository for your research data.
- How to prepare your research data for deposit.
- License considerations for your data.
- Overview on how to use and deposit data into the University of Guelph Research Data Repositories in Borealis, A Canadian Dataverse Repository.
- Questions from audience members.

All are welcome!
