Description

CCS, in partnership with the Office of Research, is providing an information session and demonstration for researchers on two powerful collaboration tools: Microsoft Teams and Cisco Webex. These free tools can enhance and simplify communication and collaboration with students and colleagues with features like video conferencing, screen sharing, shared documents, group chats, etc. This session is intended both for those who are familiar/already using the tools as well as those who have never tried them.

The session will be led by two CCS analysts, Jon Spenceley (Teams) and Lelio Fulgenzi (Webex).

The session will take place on Wednesday, February 26 from 11 am to 12 noon in Peter Clark Hall (basement of the UC).

Coffee and snacks will be served.
