Description

The purpose of this funding opportunity (FO) is to support research on timely interventions (e.g. programs, policies, social enterprises and resource distribution approaches) that have been initiated by others (e.g., policy makers, practitioners, communities) and have the potential to impact health and health equity at the population level. Population health intervention research involves the use of scientific methods to produce knowledge that attempts to capture the value, cost and differential effects of these interventions, the processes by which they bring about change and the contexts within which they work best.

Eligibility

Nominated Principal Applicant (NPA) must have an academic, clinical or research appointment.

- The NPA, or any of the team of applicants, must not be the implementer of the population health intervention. While strong collaboration is encouraged between team members and implementers, team members cannot have direct influence over the creation and implementation of the population health intervention;
- The team member and the implementer of the intervention cannot be from the same institution
